Questions for Discussion

1. Why do you think political issues often create so much conflict and tension in our society? How does the Bible give us perspective to see things differently?
2. Why is the sovereignty of God good news? How does resting in his sovereignty bring us comfort?
3. This week, how can you contribute to the unity of the church through humility, gentleness, patience, and bearing with one another in love?

Live Sent This Week

Politics has always been a divisive conversation in our culture. Two suggestions for how to Live Sent over this week leading up to the final day of voting: 1) Pray and then vote. 2) When you find yourself being pulled into a political conversation, take the initiative and ask those in the conversation if you could stop and pray for peace, unity, and wisdom for our country and the leaders. Afterwards, if the conversation moves towards division and fractured relationships, affirm the value of others but leave the conversation and commit to pray once more for peace, unity, and wisdom.
