OVERVIEW

Job may be the first book of the Bible written. Scholars believe it takes place around the days of Abraham, based on some of the original phraseology. In this book, God allows Job to lose everything, after Satan proposes that God is bribing him with blessings. All is restored in the end, but Job's three friends come to visit and wreak havoc with false suppositions and arguments.

Across

- The Lord gave and the Lord has taken away, may the name of the Lord be _____ (1:21)
- God asked Job, "Where were you when I laid the earth's _____?" (38:4)
- Mortals, born of woman, are of few days and full of _____ (14:1)

Down

- When the angels came before the Lord, so did _____ (1:6)
- I know that my _____ lives (19:25)
and he will surely _____ (1:11)
- Stretch out your hand and strike everything he has, and he will surely _____ (1:11)
- For hardship does not spring from the soil, nor does trouble sprout from the _____ (5:6)
- Though he slay me, yet I will _____ (13:15)
- Another word for dinosaur, which God made to feed on grass like an ox (40:15)
